“ Like many young men who were raised in the back woods and small towns of the midwest Dad only had a 6th grade education. He worked hard for a dime, a quarter, or a dollar, if he had one he felt rich. He hunted, fished and worked hard to make a living. He went off to war because his country called his name leaving a wife at home who was expecting a child. He served in Africa, Sicily, Italy, France, and Germany in the Ambulance Corps carrying the wounded and the Dead. Like many men returning in 1945 he found hard to share his experiences and to hold his family close. Jobs were hard to find, but it was tough for many. He persevered most of his life, I wish him Peace, Love you Dad!
